Who Said That? Game Instructions

Copy and cut out game board and question cards on card stock. Laminate to make last longer.

Copy answer sheets, cut out one for each player.

There is one question card you can put your own questions on.

Stack the questions upside down on the table. Use buttons for player markers. Place on Start. The start is red so use a red question first. When a player lands on a color, that is the question that should be asked. Everyone writes their name on their answer sheet.

Youngest goes first, “Player #1” and reads the question. Everyone writes an answer on their paper except for “Player #1”. (Help young children when needed.)

Everyone who wrote an answer gives their paper to “Player #1’s left” -(Player #2).

“Player #2 reads all the answers to Player #1, but do not read who wrote the answer.

Player #1 tries to guess Who Said what. Player #1 moves as many circles up the game board as he/she guesses correctly. The answer papers are passed back to their owners and

Player #2 becomes Player #1 and draws another question card. Continue game from *
And so forth. Player #1 always reads the question and guesses who said what.

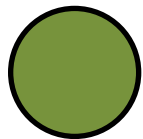

Player #2 reads the answers from the other players. Colors indicate what type of question it is.
